

GVV Africa French
Call for Project Partners

The Education Collaborative is calling for partners to adapt its current GVV Africa curriculum to the Francophone context and a Francophone audience. This project is being implemented to allow the Francophone audience in The Education Collaborative's network to benefit from the strategies in ethical action as offered in the GVV Africa course.

Overview

Giving Voice to Values (GVV) is a curriculum that teaches skills in ethical action—skills designed to help professionals at all levels speak up effectively, persuade others, minimize risk, and act with integrity in the workplace. GVV Africa brings GVV's unique case-based approach and important skillset to audiences across the continent through an innovative online course.

The Education Collaborative is looking to partner with two institutions in Francophone Africa to tailor the course's 7 modules, including cases, videos, and all learning content to French and to reflect a Francophone Africa context. Higher education institutions within The Education Collaborative network and professionals in Francophone Africa will benefit from the French-focused modules as they enrol their key stakeholders on the course.

The estimated project duration is one year from start date.

Key Requirements

- Representatives selected to lead the project should have taken the GVV Africa course and show proof by sending in their certificates with their proposals.
- Representatives should be bilingual, able to speak and write in both French and English.

Application

Kindly respond expressing interest by sending in your proposals. Proposals should include:

- Clear statement of why your institution is looking to lead the creation of this course.
- Share the CV(s) and description of a proposed lead(s) (150 to 300 words), their fit and qualifications, and any experience developing curriculum. Kindly add why they have been selected as the best lead for this project.

Send proposals to gvvafricaadmin@ashesi.edu.gh. Use the subject: GVV Africa for French. Kindly send in an application by September 15th, 2023.

The review process will include interviews and content review and is estimated to take an average of six weeks. Successful proposals will hear back by October 6th with an offer for consideration.
